"LIGHT PLAYS A HUGE ROLE IN HOW YOU FEEL IN A SPACE"

In a recent interview, we had the pleasure of speaking with Tanisha Neill, the founder of the furniture brand NISH. As Neill shared her journey from interior design to her current focus on creating beautiful, functional furniture pieces, one theme emerged as particularly compelling - the power of lighting to transform a space.

"Light plays a huge role in how you feel in a space," Neill explained. She believes that by carefully selecting the right lighting fixtures, you can truly enliven a room and create a welcoming, elevated ambiance.

This emphasis on lighting as a critical design element is something that resonates deeply with us. After all, lighting is not just a practical necessity - it is a form of art that can enhance and elevate any space, from a cozy living room to a grand gallery.

Just as a masterpiece requires the perfect lighting to showcase its brilliance, the furniture and decor within a space need thoughtful illumination to truly shine. Neill understands this principle intimately, designing her pieces with an eye towards how they will be highlighted and experienced through the interplay of light and shadow.

Whether it's a striking pendant light or a subtle accent fixture, the right lighting can make all the difference in how we perceive and interact with the objects and environments around us. Neill's commitment to this idea is evident in the care and attention she brings to every aspect of her work.

As you explore NISH's collection, pay close attention to the way when incorporated, lighting complements and elevates each piece. It is a testament to her holistic design approach, and a reminder that true artistry lies not just in the creation of beautiful things, but in the way we choose to present and experience them.
